

Prof. Namba has been granted 2013 research award sponsored by Takeda Science Foundation.

Prof. Namba has attended Takeda Science Award Ceremony at Sheraton Miyako Hotel Tokyo in November 12th. He has been granted 2013 research award sponsored by Takeda Science Foundation.

The grant program is open to established and investigators who are employed at medical schools or any relevant institution. The goal of the grant is to allow the award recipient to continue to develop the innovative research in medical related fields.

Also, the grant includes five research fields; cancer, psychiatry/neurology/brain, infectious diseases, basic or clinical research. His research theme, “Identification of new tumor suppresser gene, which regulates autophagy and apoptosis, and discovery the new target of anti-cancer” has been chosen for the field of cancer among them.

Certificate of the grant by Takeda
Science Foundation